

Article Link<https://www.devex.com/news/taking-a-space-age-approach-to-food-security-92223>

Taking a space-age approach to food security

DevEx reports on the role that satellite technology can play in addressing global food security. Among other sources, they cite an an IPA Kenya study, done with a Stanford research team, which collected ground data from thousands of smallholder farm plots in Kenya. Data such as this can be combined with high-resolution satellite imagery to make valuable predictions about crop productivity.

March 20, 2018