

The Semiotics of Professor Email Signatures

One of the main responsibilities of an IPA Project Associate is communicating with the Principal Investigator on their project, being their eyes and ears on the ground. This Principal Investigator is typically a Professor at a US university. Chris Blattman provided some helpful advice a while back on how to email your professor. Now Jorge Cham chimes in with essential guidance on how to interpret their response.

January 19, 2011